ACD PACKET: Administrative Claim for Damages - TORT, State and Fed, sample Notice, Affidavit with instructions (Now With CD!)

A84 $77.00

The Tort claim process is the 'exclusive' remedy for moral wrongs committed via misapplication of 'their' private corporate laws, statutes, policies, etc. by 'agent/employees' of government. In the common law, a tort is a civil wrong for which the law provides a remedy. The origins of the modern law of torts lie in the old remedies of trespass and trespass on the case. The term itself comes from French Law and means, literally, 'a wrong' (avoir tort = "to be wrong" or "to have wronged [somebody]"). The equivalent body of law in civil law legal systems is delict. A tort is a breach of a non-contractual duty potentially owed to the entire world, imposed by law. The majority of legal claims are brought in tort. This tort process is private – no attorney – no court – no filing fees!

CAUSE and The CURE of The Raging WAR OVER AMERICA, The By: Qui Tam

Everyone knows there is a problem in America, but few can identify it. It is very difficult to campaign against an enemy you cannot identify. Americans have taken for granted their literacy, their language, their grammar, their law, their custom, and their proper usage. The adversary knows, full well, that it does not need artillery, tanks, bombs, guns, bullets, or mace to control anyone, when they have control of the grammar, the Law and the language of a people, Nation; and furthermore, control over their entire Culture.

We, the People have never had "representatives" in the Continental Congress, but Deputies, first at Philadelphia, then Washington, District of Columbia, exclusively. The people are the fountain of sovereignty in America via the Popular Government they enthroned, for the protection of their unalienable Lives, Liberty, and Property; the only basis in fact, for the guaranteed Republican form so ordained and established. The best defense is a good offence. The information in this book demonstrates how you can create the legal, documentary evidence to break all the presumptions that are ever used against you in court through the process of administrative "Notice" and exhaustion.

Credit River, Judgment - A Landmark Decision

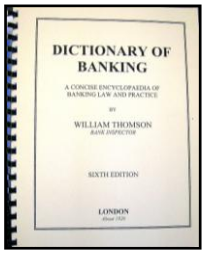

FRNS

A67 $28.00

UNCONSTITUTIONAL

This document is copied in its original form – as is, and deals with the Bank Mortgage-Money Issue as discussed by Jerome Daly based on his own personal experience with 'The System' in effect in our country right now! It revolves around a Minnesota Trial Court's decision holding the Federal Reserve Act unconstitutional and VOID; holding the National Banking Act unconstitutional and VOID; declaring a mortgage acquired by the First National Bank of Montgomery, Minnesota in the regular course of its business, along with the foreclosure and the sheriff's sale, to be VOID.

This decision, which is legally sound, has the effect of declaring all private mortgages on real and personal property, and all U.S. and State bonds held by the Federal Reserve, National and State Banks to be null and VOID. This amounts to an emancipation of this nation from personal, national and State debt purportedly owed to this banking system. Every True American owes it to himself/herself, to his or her country, and to the people of the world for that matter, to study this decision very carefully and to understand it, for upon it hangs the question of freedom or slavery.

INVISIBLE CONTRACTS: By George Mercier, 463 pages

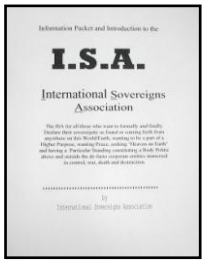

A90 $56.00

George Mercier wrote a letter to Frank May in 1985 which became a privately published book entitled Invisible Contracts and delves into the discourse of the various and obvious secret contracts between Man and his Government and exposes the same and similar aspects as now seen and realized in the REDEMPTION program, proving the age-old scriptural statement, there is "NOTHING NEW UNDER THE SUN!"

An explanation offered by the author is; "Whenever there is an exchange of benefits and there remain some lingering expectations of some duty between two parties, then an actual INVISIBLE CONTRACT is in effect, as it is said that the duty owed back to the party initially transferring the benefits is RECIPROCAL in nature." As an example - if you sell a business to someone you enter into a continuing restriction to not turn around and build up the same duplicate business that was just sold; this would be a Covenant [A binding agreement] Not to Compete – 'invisible contract'. Another example the author gives is; “Bank account instruments are conclusive evidence of Taxpayer Status by virtue of participation in the closed private domain of INTERSTATE COMMERCE.”

Life is filled with ‘invisible contracts’ and is important to know and understand what they are and how they affect you in your life and your day-to-day business. Read INVISIBLE CONTRACTS and you will learn what you need to know! EXTREMELY REVEALING!

Memorandum In Support of Application for Habeas Corpus- On Supervised Release: By Charlie Miller

This volume is addressed to those who are imprisoned and have enough integrity to do something about it. The principals and pieces contained herein are verifiable in any prison law library. Those familiar with the Redemption process [Redemption Manual 4th Edition, which is available in this catalog, explains the redemption process in detail and how to become a Secure Party Creditor] will have a leg up and should see the issues a little more quickly.

On January 12, 2005, numbers: 04-104 & 04-105; the Supreme court of the United States cancelled all Orders in a Criminal Case that caused imprisonment. In short, the 'Supremes' said all the judgments issued under USSG (United States Sentencing Guidelines) were void for violation of the fifth and sixth amendments. Congress may not, under any circumstances interfere with judicial discretion.

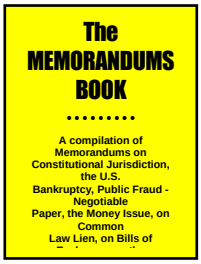

Congress did this when it made mandatory the USSG on the courts. Therefore, all sentencing 'case law' between November 1, 1987 and January 12, 2005, is now VOID, suspect at the very least due to the fact that all those government statements were based on invalid law. Included is a Memorandum of Record with Instructions on how to apply this process.

Metro 1313 ● The Head of The Beast? NO MORE CONSPIRACY THEORY BUT HARD PROVABLE FACTS, By: David A. Newby and "Grandma Herman"

This publication is a three (3) part series that was published in The American's Bulletin. The purpose of the series is to put into clear focus for the reader what is revealed in the book entitled Terrible 1313 Revisited written by Jo Hindman in 1963.

When you buy a new car the MSO, which is technically the Bill of Sale from the manufacturer, is sent to the State and the State issues you a Certificate of Title because the State owns the care! People, you own nothing of major value that you think you do. Even you and your labor are nothing but collateral to the bogus bankruptcy. When did you stop being "personnel" and become a "human resource?" Folks, you don't even own the skin you live in! You are economic slaves, in the absolute truest sense of the word, to the Federal Reserve and the International Bankers, and Metro.

The last segment should serve to pull many things into focus for even the novice; to those who have tried to build room additions onto their houses, or expand their businesses and run square into the county or city zoning board. You see big business is given rights to build malls and subdivisions on county government granted land and bond issues, yet the average citizen is precluded from using his own land as he sees fit. The reason you can't use the land you "own" is because you don't own it!

Shetar's Effect On English Law, The [As Seen To Apply To Mortgages in The United States Of America]

01 $5.00

The essence of this report, copied from The Georgetown Law Journal, is its historical explanation of what a Mortgage is and how it relates to a Lien on property. As the author, Judith A. Shapiro, states: "Most important, the encumbrance of real property permitted by the Jewish Law of the shetar had been adopted by English law. Bonds contained the traditional Hebrew formula pledging "all my goods, movable and immovable." Creditors had the statutory right to execute against the debtor's land. No longer were personal obligations and rights in land rigidly separate. Even while Edward was divesting himself of his Jewish moneylenders, he made their legacy permanent. A small but significant principal of Jewish Law, wherein personal debt supersedes rights in real property, had become the law of the land."

Short History of the Bible, A - By: Bronson C. Keeler: 1881 – REPRINT

A38 $31.00

This is a popular account of the formation and development of the Canon. It is an inquiry into the origin and development of the doctrine of divine revelation, beginning with a time when the books composing the Bible were not considered inspired. The investigation in the book will be to show who first affirmed the books to be inspired, why affirmed, and the intellectual character of the affirmants. The author invites the reader to share the inquiry as he has no theory to advocate. In opposing what he believes to be error, the author simply offers evidence which is accessible to most, which seems not to have had its due prominence in theology discussed among the masses, and which, if properly appreciated, must result in great changes in religious belief.

"Christian Duty Under Corrupt Government"

Christian Duty Under Corrupt Government

A211 $12.00

Theological error always comes before political error. Most, if not all, of our nation's political error is a result of theological error taught in our pulpits. The creator's order of creation put mankind second in command. Governments are a latter creation and are either righteous or evil, depending upon the spiritual condition of the creators. Political correctness is dependent on theological correctness. Theological and political error has put our nation at great risk. Christian Duty Under Corrupt Government is timely since we still have an opportunity to influence the future. Our nation's founders taught a more correct theology than we hear today. It is the author's hope and prayer is that this book will be read by many of our country's Freedom seeking patriots.

BONUS: Black's Law, Second Edition (1910)

Black's Law dictionary of law contains definitions of the terms and phrases of American and English jurisprudence, ancient and modern.

While these volumes contain just the sort of legal verbiage that one would expect, there are many other reasons for consulting these volumes. Terms from legal Latin and legal French are included, as well as words and phrases from Scottish and Welsh law. There are dozens of Latin and French terms of kinship, which appear in older wills and lawsuits.

The publishers of Black's Law Dictionary are now producing their eighth edition, and the newer editions have added information on the developments in the law in recent decades. But for genealogists the earlier editions retain their value, since they have a higher proportion of information on older law, especially the English feudal law, which is essential for the interpretation of documents from the American colonial period and from the England that the colonists left.

The paper edition of the book has long been recognized as an essential reference tool for legal researchers.

To make room for new material, more modern editions have dropped the very words the genealogist may need to interpret old documents--the archaic and obsolete terms that haven't been used for a century or more.

Meltdown of U.S. Dollar Underway as China Dumps Currency

By: David Gutierrez
Sunday, April 13, 2008

(NaturalNews) Comments by China that it intends to move away from its reliance on the dollar triggered a sharp drop in the Dow Jones Industrial Average and heightened worldwide fears about the U.S. currency's stability. Chinese Central Bank Vice Director Xiu Jian said that his country is planning to shift much of its $1.4 trillion national currency reserve from dollars to more stable currencies, such as the euro or Canadian dollar. After these comments, the dollar fell to record lows relative to other currencies -- the lowest ever against the euro, the lowest in a generation against the British pound, and the lowest in 57 years against the Canadian dollar.

"The big issue on any currency is if its rate of depreciation is so fast that it scares away all capital, and the announcement that we heard from China sort of feeds those fears," said Larry Smith, chief investment officer at Third Wave Global Investors.

China is the world's largest investor in U.S. Treasury bonds and securities, holding more U.S. debt than any country but Japan. Because China's currency is linked to the dollar, the country also maintains a massive reserve of the currency.

But this policy had already begun to shift at the time of Xiu's comments. China has divested approximately 5 percent of its $400 billion holdings in the U.S. Treasury and established a $200 billion fund to help diversify its investments in equities and

THE BAILOUT, THE BUCK AND THE INSANE

This weekend's (March 24, 2008) meeting of four heads of central banks communicates the size of the OTC derivative disaster. It is a system that is broken. A bailout will require the printing of trillions of dollars worth of monetary stimulation making Bernanke's helicopter drop look like chump change.

The dollar number of pending derivative bankruptcies is the size of the mountain of garbage paper issued by just those who are to be bailed out. That number is greater than the total world economies.

There simply isn't enough money in the world for central banks to buy up the mountain of worthless paper sold by those who need bailouts; all of which made fortunes for their directors, officers and key people.

When an OTC derivative fails to perform, notional value becomes real value.

The notional value of all OTC derivatives exceeds $500 trillion.

Credit default swaps (OTC derivatives) alone account for over $20 trillion dollars of notional value and are failing. Major dealers in these items, Lehman and JP Morgan, had their debt downgraded last week.

Maintaining the AAA rating on debt of public companies primarily issuing default swaps as credit guarantees is a sick JOKE of fabrication. This is a JOKE that in all probability will lead to litigation that destroys the rating companies.

You can be absolutely sure that all the biggies have their money out.

No one mentions these firms being bailed out are the ones who created this disaster, making billions for their economic sin. You can be sure the big boys have their money out of the now on-the-rocks international institutions.

No one mentions that taxpayers' bailing out the bankers will leave the average man victimized and paying for the pleasure of the economic rape.

Meanwhile Derivative Traders (salesmen of perdition, not traders) and their hedge fund managers are all in Greenwich Connecticut with their hundreds of millions and billions--now retired playing tennis on their indoor courts at their waterfront mansions as the mess deepens.

Litigation against the officers and directors of these international banking firms, both against the biggies personally as well as the company, will make the biggies occupation one of defending against litigation for the rest of their lives.

For those biggies in these companies who trust no one and therefore have wives with no money will lose everything. Some of them I know. What goes around certainly comes around.

Litigation against OTC derivatives are slam-dunk victories for the injured plaintiffs. The biggies will pay.

This is the greatest act in history of 'Public Be Damned' and 'Let them Eat Cake.' It will not come about because in the USA it is already the richest political potato.

The problem is that the plan of the US legislative is down right STUPID. It is an embarrassment that legislators are so publicly moronic when it comes to economics.

The problem that no one is focusing on right now is the tracking of the mortgage itself to the structured product, which has broken down. That means in these items many can't connect the underlying mortgage to the structured investment product (derivative).

So far, courts have held that the only entity that can foreclose is the entity that actually lent the money. The average guy does not know that with an attorney to protect him he has a free house!

The entity that actually lent the money has sold the mortgage and been paid. Therefore where is the incentive for original lender to foreclose? The answer is there is none. Bankers do not help bankers in the same way that sharks do not help sharks.

Conclusion: Because of the unthinkable size of the problem it is impossible to construct a Resurrection Trust to buy all these worthless and never to be anything but worthless items.

Should any item surface to do this it will destroy all the National currency of the central banks that participate. If there were an attempt to construct such an entity with the cooperation of the USA, the US dollar would go much lower than .5200. Gold would go to many thousands of US dollars and silver at a 20/1 ratio.

Anyone who last week assumed the problems were over and we would be improving from there on out is simply ignorant and insane.

Water as a Weapon

By Janet C. Phelan

In August of 2004, quietly and without fanfare, an article was published on Los Angeles Independent Media revealing a plan by the U.S. government to depopulate the country via the water system. The article alleged that the government had reconfigured country-wide so as to function as a finely honed targeting system, which, when deployed, would selectively target individual citizens and groups. The article states the article alleged that this had been accomplished by the construction of a communications system of double lines and mixing capabilities on the main lines. In this manner, certain, pre-selected homes would receive the "poisoned water" while the targeted homes would receive the mixture. It is the contention of this reporter that the mixture will kill those imbibing the water. Since the time this article appeared, the publication of "Radio Extermination Project," New information has surfaced suggesting these claims. In addition, this reporter has determined some errors in the initial report. The first error involves the Patriot Act. A careful reading of the Patriot Act, "The Expansion of the Biological Weapons Statute," reveals this to be the umbrella statute authorizing this project. While the wording of this statute is somewhat vague, a careful reading of the language reveals its true intent. Firstly, §17 legalizes "delivery systems" and "dissemination systems." "Delivery systems" is weapons terminology. "Toxins" are poisons. The statute also states that these delivery systems and toxins will and will be used on U.S. citizens. As we all know, are meant to terminate life. There is no mention in §17 of these poisons being utilized only in retaliation for an attack or punishment for a terrorist act or lethal injection. Rather, the statute states that these SHALL be legal when used for purposes determined as "peaceful, protective, prophylactic or bona fide research." Because of the "peaceful" purposes clause, we are essentially seeing the legalizing of "peaceful, protective, prophylactic...." We have thus essentially bypassed any necessity for due process and have legalized the use of poisons to kill. A dissection of the part of the statute which lists the "restricted persons," who are disallowed from possessing or transporting these delivery systems and toxins, includes those in the military, which is interesting in this operation. We can therefore infer that §17 is NOT authorizing the use of poisons in warfare against an enemy of the U.S.A.

So who are the intended recipients of the "peaceful" poisons authorized in this statute? If not an enemy of this country, could it be segments of the U.S. population?

We have seen in our country, since 9/11, the steady progression of the LAPD police state. The rise of fascism. Our vote seems to have gone the way of Diebold, and can now be electronically finessed to assure the powers that be their continued governing power. Our privacy rights have been eroded since the "national emergency" that the attacks of 911 established as an ongoing rationale for enforcement. Most newspaper editors will acknowledge, at least in private conversation, that they are "told what to print" by their office phone lines to

China Threatens War Escalation Over Bush Handshake

Top news story in China ignored in U.S.; Beijing furious about warming of American-Taiwanese relations

The Americans Bulletin Reporter Vanessa Fimbres

In an astounding development that has completely failed to register any attention with the mainstream U.S. media, China threatened unprecedented action for war in advance of a potential conflict, after President Bush shook hands with a Taiwanese government official yesterday.

Bush shook hands and met with Taiwan's representative to the United States, Joseph Wu, on Tuesday, during a commemoration for victims of Communism in Washington DC. In a headline story that aired at 10pm Shanghai time Wednesday night on the CCTV state-run news channel, Chinese government leaders threatened to plan new war games and heighten military readiness in anticipation of any attempt by the U.S. to defend Taiwan should a Chinese invasion occur, or simply if Taiwan declares its independence. According to the news station, Taiwanese media were manipulating the handshake for their own political agenda.

Officials expressed extreme concern and spoke of dire consequences during a press conference as China made clear its fury that Bush had even chosen to acknowledge Wu's visit.

"We insist to keep the current peaceful situation that we promised Taiwan's citizens. We have prepared to stop (prohibit) any activities, conduct and any excuses to divide Taiwan away from China in whatever cause, the activities are going to cause serious harm. Chennaihuian's (President of Taiwan) conspiracy of an independent Taiwan causes serious harm in our peaceful relations. We will resort to military action if they continue these irresponsible activities," the official channel, Chinese government Li. (rough translation).

The news anchor noted that the handshake heralded a change of direction in the Bush administration's approach to Taiwan, with the U.S. government having previously backed away from its resolve to defend Taiwan should an invasion occur, as its treaty with the country dictates.

Officials in China, unlike

"I raise my fist because I want that justice don't get my freedom, gonna have to take my freedom." — Shannan Austin, born his song "Raise the Fist"

LOS ANGELES – On May Day, 2007, Shannan Austin was filming a large news wire after clashing with police in a public park. Images of baton-wielding officers and cowering protesters, journalists among them, appeared on the evening news and virtually on a city still scarred by the memory of the Rodney King beating. Shannan Austin says his own run-ins with the police led him to start Cop Watch.

Citizen video has left an indelible mark on Los Angeles's police force. The video is the best-known example.

Tools of the trade

Cop Watch LA received wide attention last year when it posted a video of an alleged gang member being punched in the face by one LAPD officer while another officer knelt on his throat. The disturbing video has been viewed more than 1.5 million times on YouTube and Cop Watch LA's site.

Ironically, Austin's tool of choice, the

THE AIR FORCE COVER-UP OF THE Minot-Barksdale Nuke Missile Flight

"It makes the hair stand up on the back of my neck." –Pentagon official

There is something deadly disturbing about the Air Force's recent "mistake" in which a B-52 "sent spare" incident that saw six nuclear warheads get mounted on an Advanced Cruise Missile and improperly removed from a nuclear weapons storage area at Minot Air Force Base in North Dakota, then get improperly loaded on a B-52, and then get improperly flown to Barksdale AFB in Louisiana report that has rocked the whole thing to a "mistake."

According to the Air Force report, sometime on the night of August 29th the warheads on the missiles (which are obsolete and slated for destruction), and another ground crew, allegedly not aware that the missiles had nuclear warheads on them, removed and mounted them on a launch pylon on the B-52's wing for a flight to Barksdale and eventual dismantling. Only on the ground at Barksdale did ground crew personnel spot the

NIST Implicitly Admits: WTC Towers Destroyed in Controlled Demolition

"Thus total, free-fall collapse, even given NIST's ridiculous "initiation" scenario, is utterly impossible. The probability of it happening is exactly the same as that of a 110-story steel building suddenly falling upward and landing on the moon."

In an amazing about-face, the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) has implicitly admitted that its 10,000-page report on the collapse of the Twin Towers is a fraudulent mish-mash of lies designed to cover-up the real reasons they were destroyed by controlled demolition.

In its recent reply to family members of 9/11 victims, NIST lead scientists Steven Sunder and Kevin Ryan, architect Richard Gage and the group Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice, NIST states: "We are unable to provide the full explanation of the total collapse."

Thus NIST euphemistically admits that its "official" explanation of the Twin Towers does not even pretend to provide any explanation whatsoever for the Towers' total collapse — and that indeed no such explanation is possible other than controlled demolition — the very idea of controlled demolition.

NIST's 10,000-page report purports to explain what it calls "collapse initiation" — the loss of several floors' vertical support. In order to dream up this exceedingly unlikely scenario, NIST had to ignore its own tests that showed that virtually none of the steel got hotter than 500 degrees C — a fact that, as previous issues of this newspaper have told our many core columns, despite the fact that only a direct hit by an engine could have been likely to do so, and that the chances of that happening even once are fairly low.

It had to preposterously allege that the steel in the core columns of the South Tower took not more core columns than the one that hit the North Tower, also pooled center. It had to tweak all the parameters in its computer models to show — despite the fact that the steel was far weaker than it actually was, the fire was far hotter than it actually was, the jogging was far greater than it actually was, and the load was far greater than it actually was — a full explanation of the total collapse.

Thus NIST euphemistically admits that its "official" explanation of the Twin Towers does not even pretend to provide any explanation whatsoever for the Towers' total collapse — and that indeed no such explanation is possible other than controlled demolition.

"Many in the US Military Think Bush and Cheney Are Out of Control"

In an interview with SPIEGEL ONLINE, the Amsterdam-based military historian Gabriel Kolko talks about the prospect of war with Iran and argues that many in the US military think the White House is being "out of control."

Gabriel Kolko: Mr. Kolko, editors at 18 papers like the Wall Street Journal, the Weekly Standard and the National Review are pushing for military action against Iran. How does the mood in parts of the US military review such a conflict?

Gabriel Kolko: The American military is stretched to the limit. They are losing both wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, and the army is being refused for these vastly money, equipment in Asia. American military power is declining relative to that of China, Russia and, another? The Pentagon is short of money for procurement, and that is what so many people in the military bureaucracy live for. The strategic reserve forces in the event of a war with Iran.

Many in the American military have learned the fundamental dilemma of modern warfare: More money and better weapons don't mean that you

Salt Lake City, Utah (Mayor Ross C. "Rocky" Anderson) —Healthcare Freedom.org

Today, as we come together once again to celebrate the birth of our nation, it is certain to say to President Bush, to Vice President Cheney, to other members of the Bush Administration (past and present) and to the members of Congress, including Utah's entire congressional delegation, that we have had so much of the major power, media, "You have failed us miserably and we won't take it anymore!"

While we had every reason to expect that you would be honest, competent, greedy, cruel, and incompetent, as you have led this great country into war, military and national security abuse, you have breached trust with the American people in the most egregious ways. You have disregarded the Constitution, the rule of law, and the principles of our democratic republic. You have undermined our Constitution, one of the most precious documents in world civilizations, and betrayed the rule of law.

You have engaged in, or permitted, heinous human rights abuses of the sort never before countenanced in our nation's history as a matter of official policy. You have sent American troops into battle in Iraq on the basis of lies, on the basis of misleading justifications, without competent planning, without adequate troops, without an exit plan for this

VeriChip Corporation's Infant Protection Systems Now Installed in More than Half of All Birthing Facilities in Ohio

DELRAY BEACH, Fla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--VeriChip Corporation (Nasdaq: CHIP - News), a provider of RFID (radio frequency identification) healthcare needs, announced today that the Company's wholly-owned subsidiary, Xmark, recently completed a sale of an infant protection system to a hospital in Ohio. Xmark's infant protection systems are now installed in more than half of all birthing facilities in hospital beds featuring systems sold under the Company's Xmark brand.

"Our HUGS system, which is the industry standard, continues its successful penetration of the birthing centers throughout the U.S.," said Darrell A. Gunther, President and CEO of Xmark. "The expansion of our install base is critical to our ongoing success as we look to add new customers, replacement systems and upgrades to existing systems, we are the leading provider of infant protection security systems for the majority of hospitals."

Xmark's infant protection systems are designed to prevent infant abductions and inadvertent child mismatching. The main component of the systems is a wearable RFID tag that is placed on the child and mother following birth. When either attempts to leave the hospital district, the integrity of the tags and removal of the child if a newborn is removed from the ward, if the tag is cut off the baby's ankle, or if the ankle strap is compromised, the system immediately triggers an alarm, alerting hospital security to the situation.

Xmark's infant protection systems also protect against incompatible events by affirming matching RFID tags to mother and child. If the mother is given the wrong child, the RFID tag will detect the conflict and activate an audible alarm.

For more information on Xmark's infant protection systems contact 1-866-55-XMARK or email ...@xmark.

Following the State of Maryland's threats against parents who refuse to have their children vaccinated, the Prince George County courthouse being guarded by armed police and attack dogs. Inside, the children were forcibly vaccinated, many against their will, under orders from the State Attorney General, the Health Department and the local School Board Director, all of whom illegally conspired to threaten parents with imprisonment if they refuse to allow their children to vaccinations.

The State of Maryland has now turned to Georgia tactics to force the vaccination of the People, arrogating parents of any right to decide how they wish to protect their own children from infectious diseases. Other states, which have already announced their intent to essentially kidnap parents and throw them in jail, removing them from their children for up to thirty days, if they continue to refuse to have their children vaccinated, are also threatening such punishment, with armed police and attack dogs at the ready, making sure nobody steps out of line, and suppressing any sense of public dissent against the Orwellian vaccination agenda.

This entire campaign against these parents is blatantly illegal. There is no law in the books requiring the vaccination of children. Plus, parents, who have religious beliefs, may not be legally charged with vaccinating any law, because the laws of health and school authorities are using Gestapo-like tactics, threatening parents with of vaccinations and their link to autism, state health authorities are increasingly turning to Surgeons General Medicine to force the People to submit to the dreams of conventional medcine. Parents who attempt to save their children from death are being arrested and having their children kidnapped by Child Protective Services (see http://www.newsmax.com/archives/articles/2007/10/15/184...).

The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons (AAPS) has called the Maryland roundup "outrageous" and "unprecedented," and promised to do everything it can to support parents who refuse to immunize their children.

This power play obliterates the concept of basic parental rights, said Kathryn Serkes, director of policy for the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons (AAPS), a national organization of physician groups that refuse corporate funding from pharmaceutical companies.

Serkes, a longtime opponent of cattle mandates, the state's attorney has issued summons to more than 1600 parents of children in the county, and a wide certificates of immunization for their children. But instead of taking a cattle prod, this state's attorney chooses to use the stronger to keep the herd in line.

US GOVERNMENT TARGETS ITS OWN CITIZENS

IN MASSIVE TAX REBATE FRAUD

By: Sorcha Faal, and as reported to her Western Subscribers

In what one Russian Economist has stated is "the most massive fraud in human history," the United States has targeted its own war weary citizens for a massive fraud, in the passage of new law that the American people, being told by their propaganda media organs, believe will give them tax rebate checks up to $1,200.00.

The Russian Economist, Sergei Kongarena, Director of Economic Development, and who accurately predicted the September 11th, 2001 attacks and America's subsequent military fiasco's in the Middle East, and the Economic Stimulus for the American People Act of 2008", and to be signed into law by President George W. Bush, does not, in fact, give any money at all to the American people, but instead is a massive tax increase signed by US citizens during 2008.

Dr. Kongarena explained, in a recent interview by the US War Leaders against their own people in which he was interviewed by this writer, said, which says: "SEC. 6428. 2008 RECOVERY REBATES FOR INDIVIDUALS. (a) In General- In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a credit against the tax imposed by subtitle A for the first taxable year beginning in 2008 an amount equal to the lesser of-- (1) net income tax liability, or (2) $600 ($1,200 in the case of a joint return)."

The organization Kongarena points out in understanding the exact wording of this new law, lies in the section some that states 'rebate' (a refund for taxes already collected for some service or merchandise (partial refund), but in the actual wording of the law states that these monies are a 'credit' (an entry of payment against taxes owed) to be applied against imposed taxes for 2008.

Dr. Kongarena's report to the American people points out that this new tax is, in fact, a deceptive way to raise taxes, and thus raise billions of dollars into their failing banking system as nearly half of

An American economist, Peter Schiff from the University of Maryland, has also noted the odd "coincidence" that the amount of monies under this new law will be "rebated" is exactly that by US banks from their loan defaults, and as he states: "It's a good thing [US stimu-

McConnell

National Intelligence Director Mike McConnell is drawing up plans for cyberspace spying operations that would give the government warrantless wiretap tools like a "walk in the park," according to an interview published in the New Yorker's print edition today.

Mr. McConnell, Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act "will be a walk in the park compared to this," McConnell said. "this is going to be a great rope on the Hill. My prediction is that there's going to be no-end with this until something horrendous happens."

US DRAFTING PLAN TO ALLOW GOVERNMENT ACCESS TO ANY EMAIL OR WEB SEARCH

The article, which profiles the 67-year-old former admiral appointed by President George W. Bush to oversee the 16 agencies that make up America's intelligence agencies, was not published on the New Yorker's Web site.

McConnell is developing a Cyberspace Initiative that is in the draft stage, which will closely police Internet activity.

Ted Giorgio, who is working with McConnell on the plan, said that "everything is on the table" to increase the authority to supervise the content of any e-mail, file transfer or Web search." author Lawrence Wright pens.

"Google has records that could help in a cyber-investigation, he said," Wright adds. "Giorgio warned me, 'We have a saying in this business: 'Privacy and security are a zero-sum game.'

A zero-sum game is one in which gains by one side come at the expense of the other. In other words McConnell's aide believes greater security can only come at privacy's expense.

McConnell has been an advo-
